Workflow Overview: The circuit netlist is represented as an attributed graph with rich node and multi-dimensional relation features, mapped into a point set to compute latent structural offsets via deep pairwise interactions, and read out to predict target properties.

